HEALTH PLANNING: A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF BASIC READINGS

Prepared by

Thomas M. Dunaye, Dr.P.H.
Assistant Professor, Health Planning Program
Graduate Department of Community Planning
University of Cincinnati

So extensive is the literature of source material on the subject of health planning that to provide a complete bibliography has become as elephantine problem. This difficulty has been partially overcome by the assembly of separate bibliographies on special aspects of the topic, many of which are included herein, but such categorized packaging of references has not answered the need for a unified body of basic readings useful to the busy practitioner or newcomer to the field. The following list of background selections is a start in this direction.

BOOKS
